FCAT READING SKILL
Determine the Main Idea, Stated or Implied

1. What to do and what to watch for: The main idea tells what the whole passage is about. The main idea is the main or most important point the writer wants to make.

2. Read the title of the passage. The title is written in BOLD at the top of the passage. Find the title before you read the passage. Read it and think about it by asking:
   - What is this reading all about?
   - What's the main point?
   - Why did the writer write this?
   - What information will I get from this reading?
   - What is the BIG picture here?
   - Why would someone want to read this?

3. Read the introduction. The introduction is right under the title. It is one or two sentences written in ITALICS. Just like the title, the introduction gives important information about what you are going to read. Sometimes, the introduction tells you the main idea before you read. After you read the introduction, think about it by asking yourself the same questions you asked about the title.

4. Read the passage. Is there a topic sentence? This is a sentence that explains in a few words what the whole passage is all about. This sentence tells the main idea or topic of the passage. Often, the topic sentence is the first sentence, but sometimes you will find it in the middle or at the end. When you find a topic sentence, you have found the stated main idea.

   TOPIC SENTENCE + DETAILS = STATED MAIN IDEA

With Stated main idea, you can prove your answer by going directly to the passage to check it. Your answer is clearly stated in the passage, and should be easy to find. Questions on stated main idea are based on what is written exactly or stated in the passage itself. For these questions, you go directly to the reading and look for the information. In other words, prove it!

Example:
There are many different ways to make a friend. One way to make a friend is to be a friend. If someone needs you, be there. Second, remember that everyone is a different person. Respect the way other people are, and get to know them. They will respect you, and want to get to know you too. Another thing you can do is always to be kind to everyone. You'd be surprised how many great friends are waiting for you.

The first sentence is the topic sentence. The other sentences tell the details to support the main idea, “ways to make a friend.” You can test your answer because the topic sentence states this idea. Also, all of the other sentences (the details) are talking about the same main idea.

5. Use graphic organizers. You can visualize or organize the main idea and details in many different ways. Take a look at another graphic organizer.
6. Pay attention to the details. Details are little pieces of information that tell more about the main idea. Details support the main idea and are connected to the main idea. All of the details will talk about the main idea and lead you to the main idea, like little clues. The main idea covers all of the details.

7. Read actively. This means that while you are reading, you continue to ask yourself questions to anticipate what is coming next.

   - What is the writer trying to say here?
   - What do the details have in common?
   - What can I infer from the information I have read so far?
   - What do these details add up to?

In other words, if the main idea is not stated, then it is implied. The implied main idea is not stated, it is only suggested. There is not a topic sentence, so you need to be a good detective. Pay attention to the details, and put them together with your own knowledge to determine the main idea. This is called drawing an inference. You draw an inference to find the implied main idea:

Example: Miguel got an “F” on his history test. He only completed 30% of the classwork, and 0% of his homework. When the teacher called Miguel’s father, Miguel was grounded for a month. He had to bring his books home every night and sit at the kitchen table to study.

The following graphic organizer is one way to organize the details of the passage and your own knowledge of the topic.

DETAILS
- Miguel got an “F” on his history test.
- He only completed 30% of the class work, and 0% of his homework.
- The teacher called home.
- He was grounded for a month.
- He brought his books home every night to study.

YOUR KNOWLEDGE
- “F” on a test means you fail.
- You have to do homework to pass a class.
- Finish your class work to pass a class.
- You’re in trouble when the teacher calls home.
- If you fail you get grounded.
- A failing grade means study hard at home to bring up your grade.

IMPLIED MAIN IDEA
Miguel failed history class!

If you think while you are reading (read actively), then you know that all of these details + what you know about school (your knowledge) add up to one thing (the main idea). Miguel failed history class! The passage never stated directly the main idea, but you can figure it out (infer) from the details PLUS what you yourself know.

Main Idea and Details SPIDER
The spider’s body is the main idea. Each leg is a different detail.
