Supplies for Successful Summer Reading

(Day to Day Materials)

➤ Pens/Pencils
Have pens available so students can write on their readers’ notebooks about the different thoughts they have about their reading

➤ Reader’s Notebook
Reader’s notebooks house the short responses that students write in preparation for their discussion with parents, family members, or friends. The content of the notebook should provide insight to a student’s thinking about what they are reading and their ability to communicate the thinking through writing.

➤ Sticky Notes
Sticky notes allows the students to learn the importance of tracking their ideas and noticing patterns or changes as they continue reading the text

➤ Reading Logs
Reading logs should be able to show the following:

- Genre
  - What have I been reading lately?

- Stamina
  - How long have I been reading?
  - Times in my life where I am reading a little and times in my life when I am reading a lot. Why is that?

- Volume
  - How much have I been reading?
  - Times in my life when I am reading a little and times in my life when I am reading a lot. Why is that?

- Place
  - Where do I find myself reading the most? Where do I find myself reading the least? Why is that?

➤ Bookmarks
Bookmarks keep the students place in their reading but if it is printed with the reading strategies, it could serve as a guide or reminder for students in case the students need a certain strategy during their reading.
