

Bak Middle School of the Arts Course Descriptions For 2024/2025

7th and 8th grade Art Major Class and Elective Selections

Communications

Media Courses

Bak MSOA Today/TV Production II – 8th grade, year

An application process must be followed to be admitted to this course.

This class will produce the daily live video news show for the school. Focus will be placed on the production of a news program and the technical execution of the live show. Students will demonstrate professional techniques of TV studio work through rotating assignments on the studio crew including producer, scriptwriter, feature and news reporter, director, camera operator, switcher, graphics teleprompter, audio, and floor manager. Students must have a strong sense of self-direction and be able to work well under strict deadlines and in a team environment. Prerequisite: TV Production I and Electronic News Gathering

TV MAGAZINE - 8th grade, year

An application process must be followed to be admitted to this course.

In this course, students produce a monthly TV magazine show called MSOA REPLAY with feature-style segments, in-depth pieces, and creative video production. In addition, students produce a variety of segments that will air on Bak MSOA Today including "look live" feature reports, news and sports reports, commercial and PSA breaks, as well as show opens. Students will learn to develop their storytelling skills, concentrate on in-depth reporting and interviewing techniques, and expand audio/visual approaches for longer-format pieces.

Advanced Editing and Advanced Video Production – 8th grade, each course is a semester
Communications Majors who take Marketing Communications will also take Advanced Video Production. Advanced Editing will be a separate course offered to 8th graders. Students will develop more advanced techniques in script writing, storyboarding, studio production, videography, and editing. Students will develop their ability to present information and stories through a growing appreciation of cinematography. In addition, students will work with advanced production equipment and increase their knowledge with editing software. Students will be given challenging real-world projects and assignments typical of the video field. They will also work on preparing the 8th grade Showcase.

Marketing Communications - 8th grade, semester elective

This class will provide an overview of the marketing mix with emphasis on the promotion component. Students will learn to think strategically and to understand the basic tools and processes used to reach and communicate with various publics. A functional approach will be used to allow students to apply writing, graphic design, and video production skills for a wide range of communication products and events. Students who take this course will also take a semester of Advanced Video Production.

Advanced Graphic Design & Publication – 8th grade, year

This course is open to Communications, Visual Arts majors and other majors that have had a Computer Graphics class. It will offer students experience in creating graphics for use in publication and digital formats. Students will learn how to use Adobe Illustrator (primarily) and Adobe Photoshop. Illustrator is used for both fine art and graphic applications like book covers, infographics, icons, app logo designs, cartoons, etc. (Other programs will be introduced.)

Adv. Radio Production – 7th and 8th grade, year

Students will learn the basics of radio production. Using Audacity, which is an audio program, students will create radio segments producing music, sound effects, and more. Segments will air on WBAK Radio 1500.

Photoshop/Digital Media/Graphic Design – 7th and 8th grade, semester

This course provides a thorough overview of the interface, the tools, the features, tricks, and tips for using Photoshop. The course is an ideal combination of instructor-led demonstration and hands-on practice. The class will focus on "real-world" applications such as magazine cover designs, print ads, logos, menu designs, and enhancing and manipulating images.

Electronic News Gathering – 7th grade, semester

This television journalism course will focus on writing, reporting, shooting and editing news, feature and sport stories for the daily video announcements show. Using broadcast industry standards, and Associated Press writing styles, students will learn how to build reporter stories for the Bak MSOA Today Show. Students will learn standard news techniques and develop an awareness of journalistic style and specific techniques in writing for the spoken word. Students will provide a real service to the school since their work will be broadcast on the campus television newscast. People will be counting on you to provide the news! Communication majors are required to take ENG in grade 7.

TV Production – 7th grade, semester

Students will learn basic theory, techniques, and procedures of television production and receive practical working knowledge of the school's studio and control room equipment including camera, switcher, character generator, prompter, audio console and lighting. Following study of studio procedures, students plan, write, produce and direct TV studio productions. This course is a Pre-Requisite to apply for Bak MSOA Today in grade 8.

Video Production – 7th grade, semester

This course takes basic techniques learned in Introduction of Video Production and expands on the phases of production to create video projects. Technical focus will be on advanced camera techniques and digital editing. Content includes producing, scripting, storyboarding, scheduling, directing, and editing video shorts. The course expands fundamental technical and production competencies in a number of complimentary areas while encouraging students to develop and explore their individual creative interest. Students are the sole producers of video products and should possess a strong sense of self-direction.

Speech Classes

Communication majors are required to take Speech and Debate in 7th grade.

Speech and Debate 7th grade, semester

This is an introductory course in competitive speech and debate, which will include, but is not limited to Humorous, Dramatic, & Oral Interpretation, Student Congress, Public-Forum Debate, Original Oratory, and Impromptu Speaking. Students will learn rules governing forensic (speech and debate) competition.

Advanced Speech and Debate – 8th grade, year

An application and teacher approval is required to be admitted to this course.

Students will be taught to prepare for competitive events in speech, interpretation and debate which will include but is not limited to Humorous, Dramatic, & Oral Interpretation, Original Oratory, Student Congress and Public Forum. Students will learn rules governing forensic (speech and debate) competition. As members of the school's Speech & Debate Club, this class will involve attending club meetings and requires participation in at least one afterschool competition every 9 weeks.

Speech and Debate Team officers are required to take Advanced Speech and Debate.

Writing Courses

Creative Writing 2, 7th and 8th grade, semester

This is a semester-long class that provides students an outlet for self-expression through imaginative writing in poetry and fiction. Students will learn the importance of daily writing and revision to help develop their unique style and voice. Students will explore various genres, participate in writing workshops, and even self-publish their work. They will also learn to meet deadlines – like the literary professionals do – and engage in class critiques and peer feedback.

Introduction to Journalism - 7th grade, year

In the evolving media landscape, journalists are expected to be multimedia storytellers. This course prepares students with the basics of journalism, including objectivity, accuracy, credible sourcing and strong, balanced writing, as well as how to tell stories visually through photojournalism. Students will cover media law and ethics, news literacy and the many styles of news writing, including features, editorials, reviews, sports and more. Students interested in joining the newspaper or yearbook staff in grade 8 are selected from this course.

Newspaper – 7th and 8th grade, year

An application process must be followed to be admitted to this course.

This course builds on the fundamentals of journalistic writing, layout and design, copy editing and photography to produce The Portfolio, a print and online newspaper that serves the students and faculty at Bak Middle School of the Arts. Staffers will have the chance to pitch and produce their own content from start to finish. On this student-run publication, staff members will learn to work together in a fast-paced, newsroom environment.

Yearbook – 7th and 8th grade, year

An application process must be followed to be admitted to this course.

In this course, students work toward the yearlong goal of producing a quality yearbook that captures the school year at Bak Middle School of the Arts. Students will develop their journalistic interests while honing their fundamentals in writing, design, editing and photography. They will also use professional software tools to develop the yearbook while working in a collaborative, team-based environment.

Through research and practice students will become familiar with these styles through instruction, interactive activities and in class performance opportunities. (Communication majors in grade 7 may not choose this elective.)

World Mythology – semester long elective, 7th and 8th grade

Students will read myths from around the world. These myths will help students make connections between classical myths and the real world. Students will gain understanding of such things as why a car company might want to name their car the "titan" and will recognize the word "narcissistic" on the SAT.

Robotics – semester long elective, 7th and 8th grades

This course aims to guide students in learning the basics of mechanical engineering, design, and computer programming, with an understanding of such concepts as:

Sturdy construction

Gear ratios

Gears

Motors, lamps and sensors

More importantly, the course aims for students to learn to think like engineers – to learn to break down complex problems into simpler, solvable blocks; to model and describe what they want something to do; to see failure as an essential opportunity to learn rather than as a judgment upon their ability.

Center of gravity

Levers

Engineering teamwork

Programming structures – loops, forks, subroutines

Physical Education courses – 7th & 8th grade

The following PE courses are available as yearlong or semester electives: Volleyball (year) and General PE (sem).

Critical Thinking – year long elective

This elective is designed to build and strengthen skills and then put these skills into practice through activities, school assignments, and homework completion. Participation in this class is especially suited to those students who are involved in activities outside of the school day and have a very busy schedule. Note: If you do not have technology at home, you should choose Critical Thinking as one of your electives. Open to all grades.

Media Center Aide - semester long elective, 7th and 8th grade

Students who wish to work as an aide must have high integrity. This means always doing the right thing even when no one is looking. They must be willing to follow directions and carry a job through to its completion. The signature of Mr. Kossove or Mrs. Bejarano is required on the course selection sheet, as well as 3's and 4's in conduct, in order to be selected as an Aide. Please note: this elective will not generate a grade on the report card.

Teacher Aide - semester long elective, 7th and 8th grade

A signature from a teacher is required on the course selection sheet to work as their aide. The tasks that a student will be asked to do will be determined by the teacher. These might include helping with paperwork, running off copies, and in some cases acting as a student mentor to a student in the classroom. Students who wish to work as a teacher aide must have high integrity. This means always doing the right thing even when no one is looking. Please note: this elective will not generate a grade on the report card.
